DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim 11 recites "A computer-readable medium". On page 3 of the applicant's specification, computer readable medium can be a carrier wave. Thus, the claims are drawn to a signal, that is non-statutory subject matter. See MPEP 2106.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The addition of the term "streamed" ("streamed target program") in the claims has been construed as new matter since it was not described or set forth in the original disclosure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2151

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claim 1-13 are rejected as best understood under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,881,229 to Singh et al.

As best understood concerning claims 1, 9 and 11, a file system hook (column 3, line 12-cache subsystem) operatively interposed between a file system and an operating system of a computer (figure 7-“operatively” interposed), the file system hook configured to detect a file system call (column 3, lines 10, 11 and 13) associated with a target program (column 3, lines 8-22; server; figure 8A,8B) and to perform one or more procedures (figure 8A); and an agent procedure (column 3, line 10-application on client) executing on the computer to use the file system hook for facilitating execution of the target program.

As best understood concerning claims 2, 10, 12 and 13, a token file including file system overlay information and environment variable changes (column 8, line 25).

As best understood concerning claim 3, a token file including registry overlay information (column 8, line 25; column 9, line 8-42).

As best understood concerning claim 4, a unique file extension (the term “unique” is a relative term; column 8, line 20).

As best understood concerning claim 5, a unique process identifier (column 9, lines 8-12).

As best understood concerning claim 6, a server terminal (figure 4; 202).

As best understood concerning claim 7, a data network (figure 4).

As best understood concerning claim 8, a CD-ROM drive (115).
